- c) Authors are allowed and encouraged to post their work online (eg.: in institutional repositories or on their personal webpage) at any point before or during the submission process, as it can lead to productive exchanges, as well as increase the impact and citation of published work (see The Effect of Open Access).

11. Authors responsibilities

- a) Authors are responsible for the published content, committing therefore to participate actively in the discussion of the results of their scientific research, as well as the review process and approval of the final version of the work.
- b) Authors are responsible for the conducting all of the scientific research, as well as its results and validity.
- c) Authors should report the Journal about any conflict of interest.
- d) Authors are fully and exclusively responsible for the opinions expressed in their articles.
- e) When submitting the articles, authors recognize that all statements contained in the manuscript are true or based on research with reasonable accuracy.

12. Conflict of interest

The public confidence in the double blind peer review process and the credibility of published articles depend in part on how conflicts of interest are managed during manuscript writing, peer review and decision making by the editors.

- a) It is mandatory that the author of the manuscript declares the existence or not of conflicts of interest.
- b) Conflicts of interest may appear when authors, reviewers or editors have interests that, apparently or not, may influence the development or evaluation of manuscripts.
- c) When authors submit a manuscript, they are responsible for recognizing and revealing financial or other nature conflicts that may have influenced their work.
- d) Authors must recognize all the financial support for the work and other financial or personal connections related to the research. The contributions of people who are mentioned in the acknowledgments for their assistance in the research must be described, and its consent to publication should be documented.
- e) Manuscripts will not be simply dismissed because of a conflict of interest. A statement that there is or not a conflict of interest has to be made.
- f) The ad hoc reviewers must also reveal to editors any conflicts of interest that could influence their opinions about the manuscript, and must declare themselves unqualified to review specific documents if they believe that this procedure is appropriate. In the case of the authors, if there is silence from the peer reviewers about potential conflicts, it will mean that conflicts do not exist.
- g) If a conflict of interest on the part of the peer reviewers is identified, the Editorial Board will send the manuscript to another ad hoc reviewer.
- h) If the authors are not sure about what might constitute a potential conflict of interest, they should contact the Journal's Editor-in-Chief.
- i) In cases in which members of the Editorial Team or some other member publish frequently in the Journal, it will not be given any special or different treatment. All submitted papers will be evaluated by double blind peer review procedure.

13. Evaluation process

The evaluation process is carried out in two stages, the first concerns the relevant opinion (desk review) and the second the Ad hoc evaluation.

The Journal Direito em Movimento counts on the collaboration of external evaluators from other institutions or countries.

After submission, all articles undergo the first evaluation in which the scope is verified, the basic requirements are presented in the form informed in the guidelines for authors and the verification of plagiarism, through the Plagius system. This screening and forwarding to ad hoc reviewers is performed by the editor responsible for the editorial process of each submission. For this first stage, an average time of 15 days is estimated.

In the second stage, the evaluation of the articles is carried out “blindly”, where neither the reviewers nor the authors will be recognized among themselves. At this stage, the following criteria are observed in the articles:

- Relevance of the topic,
- Quality of the methodology used,
- Text clarity,
- Adaptation to the editorial norms of the Journal.

For this second stage, the average time is 1-4 months. The opinions of articles submitted in English/Spanish will be formulated in the language of the text or in Portuguese. The manuscript is reviewed by two or more experts on the topic in question. If the manuscript is approved by one reviewer and rejected by the other, it will be up to a third reviewer to decide whether to approve or reject it. The section editor may request further revisions to break the tie or request a mining vote from a member of the Editorial Board.

DESK REVIEW:

In the first stage of the evaluation there are three possible outcomes:

- Rejected. The rejection suggested by the evaluators will be based on the previous analysis, adequacy to the norms, adherence to the editorial line of the journal, among others. In case of rejection, the article will not be published, only in the case of adaptation to the format, the article can be adjusted and sent to the second phase.
- New submission. Manuscripts that fit the scope of the journal but need major revisions in writing and methodology need new rounds of evaluation. In this case it is suggested by the editor to send the manuscript as a New Submission starting the process again.
- Qualified for second phase. The manuscript remains for double blind review.

ASSESSMENT IN THE SECOND STAGE (SCIENTIFIC PAIRS):

The articles that go to the second stage can be:

- Rejected. The rejection suggested by the evaluators will be based on the analysis of the content, focusing on the methodology and validity of the data, and must also consider the originality. The rejection opinion can be presented to the authors, as long as they request it.
- Directly Approved Accepted. When there are only minor fixes that do not need further rounds of evaluation. Direct approval does not require any content adjustments, the authors are advised of the decision and the article proceeds to the following processes.
- Accepted with modifications. Articles approved with modifications will be forwarded to the authors with the reviewers' considerations. The journal has no influence on the reviewers' evaluation method, it only guides them on its guiding principles, exposed in the focus, scope and guidelines for authors, which they must respect. After corrections, the author sends the article back to the journal for verification by the editor and reviewers, if the latter so determine. Once approved, it goes to publication.

The Editorial Committee reserves the right to suggest new modifications of form or of a punctual nature in terms of content or grammar, in order to adapt the article to the editorial or graphic profile of the Journal.
